TARREJ AND FEATHERED.

Colorado's Adjutant-General the Victim of a Cow-ardly Outrage.

KIDNAPPED BY MASKED MEN.

Seized at His Hotel as He Stood at the Telephone at Midnight.

PURSUE POLICE KEPT OFF.

Gov. Waite Offers a Reward for the Capture of the Plotters.

Colorado Springs, Col., June 23.—Adj. Gen. Tarney was kidnapped from the Alamo Hotel, a few minutes after midnight, this morning, by masked men, taken to the suburbs in a hack and there tarred and feathered.

Several unknown men took part in the outrage.

The Adjutant-General was left lying on the prairie, and officers soon arriving, he was cared for by them. He is thought to be not badly hurt, but he is suffering from bruises caused by rough handling, and is in great mental anguish.

The kidnapping caused the greatest sensation and excitement here, as soon as the facts became public, and also at Cripple Creek, to which place the telephone company carried the news.

Gen. Tarney has been in the city for several days, attending the examination of the arrested Bull Hill miners, for whom he and Col. B. F. Montgomery, of Cripple Creek, appeared as attorneys.

At 12:05 o'clock a call came over the telephone for Tarney. The clerk sent the night porter, the only other man in the hotel office, to call Gen. Tarney. He appeared in a very few minutes and stepped up to the phone.

He had hardly spoken a word into the receiver when two men who were on their faces entered from the street. One hastily advanced on Gen. Tarney, the other remaining near the door just inside the office.

"We want you," said the first masked man, as the General turned his face from the telephone on hearing footsteps. The second masked man, who had suddenly appeared, was holding a pistol in his right hand.

"What do you want?" quietly asked Gen. Tarney.

"We want you to come with us," was the reply.

"But I don't want to go anywhere," returned Tarney, in a calm tone, making an effort to retreat. At this the man lunged forward, pistol in hand, and struck the General on the forehead with the weapon. The other masked man at the door advanced to his companion's assistance, and together they rushed toward the General.

The clerk did not interfere. He had been warned to keep his hands off by the masked men. The General was taken to the street, where he was surrounded by a mob of men who were shouting and waving their hats.

drivers, not paying them, but simply saying, "Good night, Johnny."

Driver Connelley says that, after the tar and feathers had been applied, Tarney was told to move on out of El Paso County; that he was not wanted, either in Cripple Creek nor Colorado Springs, and that if he ever showed up again, he would meet a worse fate than those of tar and feathers.

There was a meeting of twenty-five deputy sheriffs at Ankers Park at 10 o'clock, and it is believed, the riot against Gen. Tarney was hatched there.

DENVER, June 23.—Gov. Waite is greatly excited over the outrage committed upon Adj. Gen. Tarney, at Colorado Springs last night. He has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of any of the participants.

Adj. Gen. Tarney was appointed Adjutant-General of Colorado by Gov. Wallace. He is a brother of Congressman Tarney, of Missouri, and ex-Congressman Tarney, of Michigan. Gen. Tarney was the personal representative of the Governor during the Police Board troubles, when the militia were opposite the City Hall. His unaccounted bearing at that time antagonized the police and their sympathizers, and it was freely stated that if he showed up again, he would be the first man to fall.

In the earlier stages of the Cripple Creek trouble he was largely advised by some of the miners, and since the settlement of the strike has resumed his services in that capacity. While the militia were in the field at Cripple Creek, he was the direct representative of the Governor, through whom various orders were transmitted to him. In this way he found himself opposed once more to many men aligned against him at the City Hall. The A. E. A. was bitter in its threats against Gen. Tarney.

Gov. Waite has ordered a special train to leave for Colorado Springs at 11 o'clock. It is believed he intends to go to the Springs in person, to assist in the hunt for the men who kidnapped the Adjutant-General.

ATHLETIC CONGRESS CLOSED.

Prof. Sloane One of the Olympic Games Committee.

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, June 23.—The International Congress of Amateur Athletic Association closed to-day with the election of an international committee, with power to organize the Olympic Games. The committee includes Prof. W. M. Sloane, of the Amateur Athletic Association, of London; Messrs. Amphill, Currier and others.

The British Ambassador, the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, and Baron de Courcel, President of the International Congress, will be among the guests at the banquet to be given to-night in honor of the delegates.

"STEADIES" HAVE RIGHTS.

And Justice Haggerty Proposes to Protect Them.

Policeman Rebuked for "Moving On" a "Spongy" Couple.

Justice Haggerty, in the Adams street Court, Brooklyn, to-day rebuked Policeman Parke, of the Fulton Police station, for interfering with the marriage of David Moore and pretty Mamie McLaughlin. Moore is nineteen years old and lives at 1 Flint street.

Parke saw the young man and Mamie sitting on a stoop near his home last night and ordered them to move on. They crossed the street and secured another stoop. The policeman followed them and again ordered them away.

Moore refused to move, and the policeman arrested him. At the station-house he was released on bail.

"I've been keeping company with Mamie for three years," said Moore, when arraigned in court to-day. "Mamie is eighteen years old. She would be here to-day, but she has to work in a paper-box factory."

"Your Honor," said the policeman, "he had no business there. He was with a couple of girls twelve or fourteen years old."

The prisoner called a girl to the witness stand who corroborated his story.

"But we've had a good many complaints about the neighborhood and I don't want to have them away," the policeman persisted.

"Are you a married man?" asked Justice Haggerty.

"No, sir."

"You get a day off occasionally, and you work a day or two for the rest of the week?"

"No, sir; never," Parkes replied, blushing like a schoolboy.

"This young man had a perfect right to be there with his best girl," said the magistrate, and he has a steady company, and you have no right to interfere with them."

"Yes, your honor," said the Court, addressing the prisoner. "She Mamie and tell her that you won't be interfered with in this matter."

STRIKE ON SCHOOL BUILDING.

Fight Between Sheet-Iron-Workers and Skylight-Makers.

The fight between the tin and sheet-iron workers and cornice and skylight makers has caused a strike of ten carpenters and plasterers employed on the large school building at Eighty-first street and Avenue C.

The cornice and skylight makers a few weeks ago finished the skylight and cornice work, and since then have worked on the galvanized ventilating pipes, that will extend to every floor of the building. They say that they have always done this work in other buildings.

After the sheet-iron workers, on the other hand, say that this is an infringement of their rights, and yesterday they started a strike. They threatened to strike the tin bluffs they all got out. They made an awful lot of noise, and kept on swearing and shouting. The tin bluffs they all got out. They made an awful lot of noise, and kept on swearing and shouting. 500 TAILORS STRIKE.

Employees of Fifteen Fashionable Shops Desert.

Many More Will Resent the 10 Per Cent. Reduction.

Rock Is Swamped and Is Ready to Give In.

The strike of the custom tailors against the 10 per cent. reduction of the bosses, which, as told in "The Evening World," was decided upon by an overwhelming majority of the men last night, went into effect this morning.

Five hundred or more men employed in fifteen fashionable establishments refused to go to work. There are forty shops in the Manufacturers' Exchange, and unless the present difficulty is amicably settled speedily it is believed the trouble will spread to nearly all of the unwholesome work. All this of course had to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced.

From that time on the Calmeyer Corner, Twenty-sixth street and Sixth avenue, was swarmed by a large number of men who were armed with big bundles of unfinished work. All this of course had to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced.

The work is given out by the bosses to the outside men every Saturday, and the employees went around to the various establishments this morning they refused to take the work unless assured that the 10 per cent. reduction would not be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced.

All this of course had to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced. The bosses refused to be enforced.

The Committee appointed to wait on the different establishments in which the strike was in force, were out this morning to try and effect an settlement. But the efforts were unavailing. The Committee consists of John B. Lennon, Frederick Jensen, John Stewart, and others.

The establishments they called at were the Calmeyer Corner, B. E. Mather, Everall Bros., W. G. Barnes, Alfred Nelson, John Patterson, Matthew Rock, West & Co., M. Carlson, Pettus & Curtis, Vaughan & Co., Weiss & Co. and Bastable & Manigault.

Upon the Committee got back to the Calmeyer Corner all the striking tailors crowded into the meeting-room. The strike was in force, and the Committee decided to spread themselves all over the building, each shop to hold separate meetings.

Speeches and explanations were being made when word was received from Matthew Rock, the wealthy Fifth avenue tailor, that he wanted to see a committee of his men. This provoked cheering, and it was at once concluded that the backbone of the combination of bosses had been broken.

The Committee started out to find Mr. Rock, and speeches were continued until their return.

Mr. Rock, however, is not a member of the combination, and even if he should be, he would not be a member of the strike. He is a member of the strike, and even if he should be, he would not be a member of the strike. He is a member of the strike, and even if he should be, he would not be a member of the strike.

Obnoxious to remarks and staves, the party that appeared dressed in the most old-fashioned, middle-class costume. He wore a cool-looking shirt, a very light alpaca coat and vest, loose, comfortable blue trousers and an old-style high silk hat, with a small brim.

Surrounded by a party of about twenty of his fellow Texans, he was decidedly the center of interest.

The Governor was in a very pleasant humor. He said he was delighted with the reception he had received at the Calmeyer Corner. He said he was delighted with the reception he had received at the Calmeyer Corner. He said he was delighted with the reception he had received at the Calmeyer Corner.

WIVES CAUSED RAID.

Their Husbands Gambled Away Their Salaries.

Upon Their Information Two Resorts Came to Grief.

Capt. Cortright, of the Eldridge street station, raided two alleged gambling-houses last night, which he found in full blast.

They were run by Clarence Frank, at 41 Bowers, and by Joseph Busak, at 50 Chrystie street. Seven men were found playing poker in Frank's place. Each had a pile of chips before him, and were interested in their hands when the police arrived.

The players, who said they were Western Union Telegraph operators, appeared greatly surprised when they found themselves under arrest. They have themselves a quantity of cards and several cigar-boxes of chips.

The men were playing a game of poker in Busak's place, and they were so busy that they did not notice the police. Capt. Cortright and a dozen policemen entered the place. On the table was found 47 cards and chips were seized.

In Essex Market Police Court to-day Judge Cortright sentenced the two alleged gambling-houses for trial in default of $500 bail each. The players were discharged.

Capt. Cortright said that for the past week women had complained to him that their husbands, who were Western Union Telegraph operators, gambled away their salaries at 41 Bowers. Some of the women said they were in very poor circumstances, and on being unable to pay their rent were dispossessed.

LOCKED FIVE CROOKS UP.

They Were Old-Timers and Recognized by Detectives.

Central Office Detectives Doran and Sloan arrested three old-time crooks at Fifty-second street and Third avenue, at 2 A. M. to-day. They were known to the officers, and were locked up for safekeeping.

The men were William Lohman, of 34 East Sixteenth street, known as "Big Louie"; John Pierce, of 24 East Ninety-seventh street, known as "Dutch"; and James Brady, of 320 East Seventy-sixth street.

SEELEY, JR., A SUICIDE.

The Author Cut His Throat in a Fit of Insanity.

Found Dead on His Bed by His Brother.

He Had Been Under Medical Treatment for a Long Time.

Edward H. Seeley, Jr., an author, thirty-years old, living with his parents in a handsome house at 281 Hicks street, Brooklyn, committed suicide early this morning by cutting his throat with a razor.

His body was discovered at 8:40 o'clock by his brother, Joseph, who had gone to his bedroom to summon him to breakfast.

Mr. Seeley for several years had been under the care of Dr. T. M. Lloyd, of 125 Pierpont street, who was treating him for recurrent insanity. The young author was of a very nervous temperament, and along in the early summer of each year he has been subject to attacks of temporary insanity. The spells lasted about two weeks, and during this period he was in the habit of destroying large quantities of his work.

Last year his condition improved, and the doctor assured the family a few days ago that his complete recovery was assured.

Mr. Seeley went home at his usual hour last evening. He did not come down to breakfast this morning, and his mother sent another son upstairs to call him.

On opening the door of his bedroom, he found his brother lying across the bed with a razor in his hand. Dr. Lloyd was called, and he said the young man had been dead for some time.

Coroner Kene was notified, and a jury which was impaneled brought in a verdict that Seeley was insane when he ended his life.

DIVORCED BY A LETTER.

Circusman Booth Gave Written Evidence of His Infidelity.

Judge McAdam, of the Superior Court, has granted an absolute divorce, on the statutory ground, to Lizzie Adella Booth from Charles Edward Booth.

The suit was brought on behalf of Mrs. Booth by Lawyer Louis Stecker, of 26 Broadway, who produced a letter written by Booth to his wife, acknowledging his infidelity, and admitting his intimacy with other women, and stating that he would not live with his wife again. The letter was sent to Mrs. Booth by her husband from Birmingham, England.

The parties to the action are well-known circus people. A. Lee, of St. Louis, President (re-elected), Joseph Waterford, of Richmond, Va., First Vice-President (re-elected), George H. Randall, of New York, Second Vice-President, Charles R. Hughes, of Indianapolis, Third Vice-President, Dr. T. M. Patterson, of Chicago, Fourth Vice-President, Carl M. Aldrich, of Chicago, Fifth Vice-President.

Cases of the "Big Four" Go to the Supreme Court.

Judges of the Court of Sessions Could Not Agree.

Two Wanted to Fine the Sports, Two Favored Imprisonment.

The cases of ex-County Clerk Dennis McLaughlin, John C. Carr, Gottfried Walbaum and Nicholas Crusius, who pleaded guilty in the Hudson County Court of Sessions, of conducting a disorderly house at the Guttenburg race track, will go to the Supreme Court for decision.

The prisoners were called to the bar, and Judge Lippincott, Kenny, Hudspeth and Hoffman, before whom the cases were tried, before the decision was rendered, to-day announced that they could not agree as to what punishment should be meted out to the defendants.

The court-room was crowded this morning by a throng of politicians and race-track followers, to hear what the sentence upon the self-confessed law-breakers would be. More than a week ago Judge Lippincott announced that sentence would be passed at 10 o'clock to-day.

After a delay of nearly two hours, the four judges met in the court room. They had been in consultation for that time, but, according to tradition, they had not reached a decision. The judges had not, and never could, agree upon a disposition of the case.

The prisoners were called to the bar, and Judge Lippincott said: "I will not go into detail over the case, for the public know the details as well as we. We consider it very important, but I regret to say that the court cannot agree upon a sentence. Turning our discussion to a point of law that could not be satisfied by the amount of fine. That point was decided by the court. The defendants pleaded guilty, and the question arose as to whether the defendants could be punished under the new law."

"The law making their offense punishable by imprisonment, and not by fine, was passed in 1883. The Legislature enacted a statute again making offenders liable to the same punishment. We are divided as to whether the offense is liable to the more recent law."

BEAUTIFUL DAY FOR THE GREAT CONTEST ON THE SOUND.

Oyster Bay, L. I., June 23.—The fairest of weather conditions smiled upon the tars of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club at the start of the twenty-fourth annual race over the Sound to-day.

With plenty of wind blowing steadily from a point south of west the best of qualities in all the classes from the big schooners down to the new 21-footers is under the best possible auspices.

The 50-footers, Emerald and Ariel, take up the gauge again, and there are Wasp and Hottentot, the fleet 44-footers, to remain the day. The race will be a close one, and the chief interest is centered in the little fellows of the latest class, carrying out, as they do, the most modern types of the yacht designer's art, perfect through constantly changing ideas.

The Club steamer C. P. Raymond accompanies the yachts over the course. The list of entries is as follows:

SHE HOWLS AT NIGHT.

Mrs. Fenton Disturbs Neighbors, and Can't Be Arrested.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to-day to secure a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Fenton, of 220 Rodney street, Williamsburg, before Justice Goetting, in the Lee Avenue Court, refusing to issue it at present.

The woman, who lives all alone in the house, is said by neighbors to disturb the house last night, so that they could not sleep.

DOYLESTOWN STRIKERS CONVICTED.

The trial of the strike strikers for the murder of Chief Engineer Padlock, of the Frick Company, was concluded to-day with a verdict acquitting twenty-eight of the defendants. The two others were convicted respectively of murder in the second degree and manslaughter. President Davis, the only remaining defendant, was released without trial. Three additional pleas remain to-day.

HOTTEST IN THE LAND

New York Beats the Warmest Southern City by One Degree.

And This Is the Warmest Day of Summer So Far.

Just as Warm To-Morrow, with a Possibility of Showers.

To-Day's Heat Record.

Hour.	Degree.	Hour.	Degree.
8 A. M.	82	12 A. M.	82
9 A. M.	83	1 P. M.	83
10 A. M.	84	2 P. M.	84

The hottest previous June 23 was in 1888, when the thermometer scored 85 at the hottest part of the day.

New York City was the hottest spot in the United States at 5 o'clock this morning.

It was hotter during the early hours to-day than upon any foregoing day of this year, and the mercury made its highest score of 84 at 10 o'clock and 85 degrees at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

It is not probable, however, that Signal Service record for June 23 will be broken, as there is a protecting mercy in a fresh breeze and a low percentage of humidity that ought to keep the mercury from going above 86 point it struck this day six years ago.

The heat was fully felt by the sweating citizen, and although it was no warmer on the street for a wonder than in Mr. Dunn's tower, and it was nearly as hot yesterday, there was a glare to the sun that scorched the tiles on the roofs, and raised blisters on the cobble stones.

Perry's thermometer in Park Row Row marked 91 degrees during the noon hour, which is odd in itself, as there is usually from 3 to 6 degrees difference between it and the Government instrument. The hottest day of 1894 until now was June 11 and yesterday, when the thermometer recorded 90 degrees in the middle of the afternoon.

Yesterday started off with the blue showing, at 79 degrees, when the 9 o'clock observation was taken. To-day's thermometer, however, was 84 at 9 o'clock, and 85 degrees was recorded at that hour.

When Weather Forecaster Dunn hung up his coat this morning, he brought from the closet a neat pair of nickel-plated club skates that hung there by a strap, and remarked with that strong logic faculty that has made him the prophetic excellence.

"We will not need these to-day," said the reporters solemnly noted the fact. "Skates are unnecessary to-day. Then he went on to say that the warm wave is central at this point. The area of highest temperature is over the Washington waterfront to the lake region and northward as far as Albany, N. Y."

At 8 o'clock the temperature here was 83 degrees; Washington, Albany and New York were 84; Chicago, 80; St. Louis, 78; St. Paul, 76; Morehead, Minn., 75; Dodge City, Kan., 74; New Orleans, 73; Jacksonville, Fla., 72.

New York was by one degree the hottest spot in the United States this morning. It was not touched by the warmest report from Southern States, which came from Dallas, Tex., with 82 degrees. The coldest place in the country was Rockford, Ill., with 71 degrees.

At 9 o'clock the first observation to-day, the humidity was at the normal point, 66 per cent. The wind blew from the south by southwest at six miles an hour.

There is no prospect of a break in the warm wave for to-day or to-morrow, although there is no indication that it will be much warmer than to-day.

The indications for Sunday are about the same as for to-day.

August showers scattered last night over the Central States and Florida, and rain this morning at New York to-night or to-morrow in the form of a local shower, which will be followed by a heavy rain, there is no general or appreciable rainfall in sight.
